MISHAWAKA, INDIANA

Dedication

TO Miss Catherine Stearns, Miskodeed advisor, in recognition of her enthusiasm for high standards and her personal interest in the publication of this and preceding yearbooks, we dedicate the 1932 Miskodeed.

foreword

'For I dipt into the future far as human eye could see,
Saw the Vision of the world, and all the wonder that could be;

Till the war-drums throbb'd no longer, and the battle-flags were furl'd
In the Parliament of man, the Federation of the world."

THE hope that some time the nations will agree and work together as one is preeminent in the feelings of mankind. In this nineteenth volume of the Miskodeed we have dared to express this hope, and since every country has excelled in some one phase of life and has given that endowment to the world, we have opened each section with an illustration representing the country which best symbolizes that section.

As the scholar of Oxford, that great university of England, represents the school, so Uncle Sam, personifying that country in which persons from every corner of the world are brought together and organized into one union, symbolizes organizations. The Spaniard, adventurous and music-loving, signifies activities. The mountain climber or winter sportsman of Switzerland typifies athletics. The Irishman, witty, emotional, with a never failing sense of humor, represents the feature section. As each of these nations had contributed to the culture and development of the world, so may each division of this Miskodeed record the activities that are constantly enriching life in Mishawaka High School.

the school

"THE present school year has confirmed the confidence that young men and women have in the value of a high school education.

"Under present conditions we cannot urge upon them a narrow training for a particular niche nor promise with assurance great opportunities in definite fields.

"But the need for education is as potent as ever. We must have citizens of intelligence, character, and power, trained to think, to plan, and to solve the problems that will confront them. It is clearly the work of the public high school to develop initiative and independence and to make of its product thinking young men and women of highest purpose and character."

Superintendent

"THE doors of Mishawaka High School swing open wide, welcoming every Mishawaka youth to accept the free advantages of a high school education. The opportunities to receive training for specific life responsibilities are many. You will prevent much loss of time and energy if you plan well your high school course. This will make attendance a joyful experience. It is your greatest opportunity for the enrichment of your life in the wonderful formative years of youth."

The Three R's

THE clang of an iron bell, the hurrying of barefoot youngsters into the one-room school house, the drone of voices studying reading, writing, and arithmetic lessons—these are all the signs of education a century ago.

Not long ago a stranger—one who, himself, had gone to school in the one-room school house of not so long ago—was shown through Mishawaka High School. He was shown through the wood shop, electric shop, and machine shop, which have all the modern equipment and facilities for trained workmanship. He was taken into the printing shop where our student printers were at work at the press. The chemistry and physics laboratories were visited, where young scientists were at work over test tubes and beakers and where the still, supplying distilled water for the shops, was being run by an assistant.

In the domestic science department an attractive dinner was being served by the foods class, and several very well-made dresses made by the girls were hanging in the closets in the clothing room. The music room was visited where the orchestra was playing, showing marked talent and training in music. Several class rooms were observed, after which the stranger went to see the office with the principal. As he was leaving, he passed down the main corridor and paused at a fountain for a drink, where he made this remark, "The system of education today is as different from and better than the school I went to as this fountain is to the dipper and bucket we used to use."

JUNE to some people may mean roses, brides, and moonlight, but to Seniors it means something else—the pinnacle of four years' work as well as pleasure—Graduation! The thing that seemed so far away has come all too quickly, and we do not know whether to be glad or sorry. It means the beginning of a new phase of our lives, but also the breaking up of old friendships. Our four years have been full of activity, and we seem to have struck the balance between work and play.

As freshmen we wandered about rather awe-stricken and didn't accomplish a great deal as a class, but several individuals made outstanding records. Orvel Nappier had the honor of being the only freshman member of the varsity basketball team. Nappier and Nicolini were also members of the varsity team in football. We seemed to be rather good followers of all the undertakings of the year, which, after all, is about what is expected of freshmen. We also served our time in the balcony.

The next year we were only sophomores, but we had stepped out of the green stage and added a little dignity to our names. During this year we began to be active in clubs and organizations. The outstanding success of the year was the presentation of "The Three Graces," a three-act play coached by Miss Dorothy Welch. This was a triumph because usually the sophomores give three one-act plays.

SENIOR OFFICERS

Roland Smith Robert Shaffer Orvel Nappier

In athletics we made a good showing, having some members on all teams. We were proud to have the head cheerleader, Lawrence McCoy, come from our class. Herman Boorda was class president this year and other officers were Robert Cook, Russel Kyle and Orvel Nappier. From our large representation in the Glee Club, Velda Wells and Geraldine Kelley were chosen for the sextette. The scholastic phase of our development was not neglected, for eighteen members were elected into the Honorary Scholastic Society.

At the beginning of the third year we elected Lawrence McCoy for president. The first social event of the season was the "Junior Jiggle-o," a valentine dance. In sports we were well represented, having eleven letter men in football and two in basketball.

"Adam and Eva," a three-act comedy coached by Miss Lola Jane Rosenberger, was a success financially as well as technically and displayed some remarkable talent. Hamilton Calvert was elected by the class for editor of the "Miskodeed" and has since shown himself worthy of the election. The climax of the year was the dinner-dance given to the Seniors. The cafeteria was decorated to represent a southern resort.

Martin Honold was chosen to direct us through our senior year. With the help of committees he successfully planned two dances during the year and this made up our contribution to social activities. We had several letter men in both major sports. Ellsworth Schue was the only remaining senior cheerleader, but he had help from the lower classes. The "Alltold," which was managed entirely by seniors, had one of its best years. As for the "Miskodeed," we have done our best to make this the best annual despite the depression.

Near the end of the year the senior play was presented under the direction of Miss Lora Duguid. This play, "Once In a Lifetime" was something more serious than is usually attempted, but was well received by the audience.

As this last year draws to a close we can truthfully say that we have done our best every year and have enjoyed our contacts with fellow-students and with teachers. To our sponsors, who have been with us for the four years, Mr. Dahl, Mr. Hatcher, Miss Rosenberger, Miss Cravens, we wish to express our appreciation for friendship and guidance.

Valedictorian

Virginia Gardner

THE senior class of '32 presents its modern Minerva, gracious, pleasant, congenial, and with the intelligence of a true goddess of wisdom.

Virginia has climbed the double highway of learning and social activities, and has reached the enviable pinnacle, that of valedictorian of her class.

Her scholastic average during her high school career was 95.12 per cent. Getting such superior grades was not Virginia's only ambition, however, for she was an active member of almost every organization in school, and an asset to all three publications.

Her high standards of scholarship and character merited her membership in the honor societies, Honorary Scholastic, National Honor, and Quill and Scroll.

Much of Virginia's time has been unconsciously spent in acquiring a host of friends, who appreciate her loyalty, and sincere friendship.

Salutatorian

THE pinnacle of the principles of education, scholarship, leadership, and service, has been reached by Hamilton Calvert, salutatorian of the class of '32. He has not only maintained an average of 92.96 per cent throughout his high school career, but has been active in many organizations.

Hamilton displayed his unusual leadership in the roles of president of the Quill and Scroll and the Honorary Scholastic Society. His membership in clubs was also extended to the Drama Club, Commercial Club, and the Hi-Y.

Hamilton's record of service has been made in several fields. In the journalistic line, he has been editor-in-chief of the "Miskodeed," and sports editor of the "Alltold." His dramatic talent came to the front in the junior class play, "Adam and Eva."

But better than all these, Hamilton has proved himself a true friend and a delightful companion.

Hamilton Calvert

THE number three possesses a mystical significance. This is because of the appearance of so many threes in nature and human life; for instance "the eternal triangle," which occurs so much in love, fiction, and real life. In like manner we have the junior class representing the third class in scholastic years. You have not the so-called greenness of freshmen, the stupidity of sophomores, or the overbearing dignity of the seniors. You are thrice strong in everything: leadership, scholarship, and athletics. In all these and other things you are fortunate, because you have had three years' experience, and have one year more to prove your strength.

The first cord of your high school life, that of your freshman year, was weak in that you had no leaders to show you how to start; you had to observe from the upperclassmen. As sophomores you increased the strength of the cord because you began to lead and not merely to observe. You elected Ray Winey to be your first president. The first plays you presented showed that there was some unusual talent in your class. To carry the honor further a number distinguished themselves sufficiently in scholastic work, to have the honor of being elected to the Honorary Scholastic Society.

And now you further reinforce the cord of your abilities in high school work, and you might call this the prime of your four years. To prove to others your strength of trust in your leaders, you again chose Ray Winey as president and Jane Myers as vice-president. Your Junior Jinx dance was a success although it was given on a supposedly ill-fated day. Better yet was the junior play, "The Charm School," which proved not only Miss Lola Jane Rosenberger's ability in coaching dramatic productions, but also the dramatic talent of the juniors. In athletics your strength cannot be doubted with Edwin Rhodes, Milo McClure, Louis Moraschi, Harold Dornsife, Paul DeCaussemaker, and Dale Zimmer, showing their ability while fighting for the honor of the school and the class. A number of students proved themselves sufficiently outstanding to be elected to the National Honor Society, the highest honor any student may attain. The greatest social event during your junior year was the Junior Prom—the event that every junior and senior looks forward to. On this night you celebrated the transition between your junior and senior year.

To Mr. William J. Gardner, as head sponsor, and Miss Leila B. Heimbach, and Mr. Clarence A. Needler, you owe a great amount of gratitude and admiration for their worthy advice.

TWO years of activities have proved that you, the class of '34, possess ability and material leadership enough to be a successful and outstanding class. Because you were unorganized in your freshman year, it was difficult for you to show the ability which you possessed. As sophomores, however, organized with Echo Slabaugh as your president, you proved your ability by the success of your activities in scholarship, athletics, and leadership.

Charles Meuninck and George Palmer, with a number of other students, have brought recognition to your class in athletics. In dramatics, the presentation of the play, "Daddy Long Legs," under the able direction of Miss Leila B. Heimbach and Miss Wilhelmina Lester, proved that members of your class were talented. Besides showing ability in both athletics and dramatics, your class had several members in the Honorary Scholastic Society.

In social affairs, your St. Patrick's dance was probably, with the exception of the prom, the most successful party of the year.

To Miss Thelma Snyder, as head sponsor, and her able assistants, who aided and directed you through all of your activities, you owe much of your success.

IT is a hard task for a class to distinguish itself during its first year in high school. A large part of the time is spent in getting acquainted with the courses, with the teachers, and with the fellow-students. This does not leave much time for outside activities. The class is seldom given an opportunity to act as a whole and has to depend upon individuals to make a name for it.

You freshmen who entered last fall have accomplished a great deal more than the ordinary freshmen. You have been the first class to organize for the first year, and although your officers have not had a chance to be very active, you have shown your initiative and eagerness to join the organization of the school. When the call for yell leaders was issued, your class responded better than all the others, and as a result three were chosen: John Kovach, Albert David, and the well-known Kenneth Biggs. Whether because of this or not, your response at pep-assemblies has put the upperclasses to shame. Your interest in organizations and clubs has been marked as you have members in the following: band, orchestra, glee clubs, chorus, Home Economics Club, Commercial Club, Girls' Athletic League, Art Club, Engineering Club and interclass athletics. As head sponsor, Mr. L. I. Whitmer has been very patient in helping the class throughout the year.

A class such as yours has endless possibilities and also a reputation to live up to. We hope also that you will enjoy the remaining three years of your high school career as much as we have enjoyed ours.

THE Board of Control has been successfully handling the business matters of the school clubs since 1923, when it was organized to give students a voice in the management of the school and to produce a more friendly attitude between students and teachers.

The membership consists of several faculty members, one representative from each class, and one from each organization. Although the Board of Control handles all the money of the school, excepting that of the athletic department which is now taken care of by the Athletic Council, any class or organization may have the use of its money by presenting claims signed by the head sponsor and treasurer.

This year the Board bought a corn popper which was rented to the classes for use at parties or for popping corn to sell at games. A small rent is charged and when corn is sold, three per cent of the money is given to the board. This money goes into the miscellaneous fund. Money from the miscellaneous fund is used to provide assembly programs.

TO become a member of the National Honor Society is probably the highest honor that a high school student may receive, and many look forward to the time when they will be junior A's and eligible to membership.

The society stands for four principles, in which the student must excell: scholarship, service, character, and leadership. Only five per cent of the junior A's and fifteen per cent of the seniors ranking highest in these four phases are eligible. A faculty committee composed of Mr. Charles H. Kern, Miss Jean Cravens, Miss Beulah Buchanan, Mr. R. A. Broman, Mr. F. W. Chapman, and Mr. D. F. Wood elect the members to this society.

The National Honor Society was established in this high school through the efforts of Mr. Chapman, the sponsor, and received its charter in 1929 from the national board.

In October, ten new members were initiated into the society at an assembly in the auditorium. Later in March, eleven members were installed.

On Armistice Day, with the help of the Hi-Y Club, Congressman Samuel B. Pettingill was presented as speaker to the student body.

A student wearing a pin with the keystone and flaming torch, the emblem of the society, is recognized everywhere as a leader in his class.

MR. CHAPMAN sponsored the organization of the Honorary Scholastic Society in this school in 1928 to satisfy the need for a purely scholastic organization. It is a distinctive honor to be asked to join this society, because membership is awarded only to those seniors and junior A's having a scholastic average of at least ninety per cent and, at the same time, ranking in the upper one-fifth of their class. Sophomores and junior B's with the same record become associate members. The latter may not vote or hold office, and instead of silver emblems they wear bronze ones.

Any one whose average falls below standard is put on probation for one semester. If at the end of this time his grades are not raised to the required standing, he is automatically dropped. One average below seventy per cent will also expel the holder from the society.

The Honorary Scholastic Society meets once each month. At these meetings all business is transacted, and programs are presented, or debates are held on international, state, or even domestic problems. The group invites the National Honor Society members to come to their picnic at the end of each school year. The annual banquet held jointly with the National Honor Society and Quill and Scroll also adds variety to the regular school program.

IN 1929 there was established in Mishawaka High School a chapter of Quill and Scroll, the National Honorary Society for High School Journalists. The society was organized with the end in view of recognizing and rewarding ability and achievement in writing and other phases of journalistic work in the high school.

The purpose of the Quill and Scroll has been "to instill in students the ideal of scholarship; to advance the standards of the profession of journalism by developing better journalists and by inculcating a higher code of ethics; to promote exact and dispassionate thinking, clear and forceful writing." Miss Heimbach, teacher of journalism, and Miss Stearns, faculty advisor of the "Miskodeed," are responsible for the organization of such a society in our high school.

Candidates for membership must meet the following requirements to be elected into the Quill and Scroll:

1. They must be of at least junior or senior classification.
2. They must be in the upper third of their class in general scholastic standing at the time of their election.
3. They must have done superior work in writing, editing, or in business management.
4. They must be recommended by the supervisor or by the committee governing publications.
5. They must be approved by the national secretary-treasurer of the society.

In a ceremony held on March 3, twelve members were installed into this honor society.

The badge of this society is composed of a scroll with a quill diagonally across it. To wear this badge is a very distinct honor, and it is one for which most high school journalists strive.

VIRTUALLY the only organization in Mishawaka High School to which freshman girls may belong is the Home Economics Club. To become a member of this organization a girl must be taking a home economics subject or must have completed three semesters of home economics.

The purpose of the club is to promote better fellowship among the girls and greater interest in the department.

The membership of the club has been very large this year and the girls have shown splendid enthusiasm and have done some hard work to make the club a success.

In March the sophomore members presented a clever play. The cast included: Mary Kalicsak, Justine Besinger, Anna Zimmer, Loretta Zimmer, Dorothy Sirlin, Evelyn Pope, and Maxine Wilkinson.

The club is guided by a council made up of twelve girls, including the president and other officers of the group, who have been chosen by the club members. Miss Jennie Sasse has served as sponsor of the club for the last few years.

Because of Miss Sasse's absence, only one meeting was held the first semester. However, in the second semester the meetings were held more often. Council members were in charge of some very interesting plays which were given by members of different classes. The council members also gave one program. A joint meeting was held with the Girl Reserves at which Dr. Alice Gray from South Bend gave a talk on the "Unforgivable Sin."

It is customary to have one social affair a year, but the club was very busy at the end of the semester so the thought of having such had to be given up.

Club Sponsor—Mr. Clarence Needler

HAVING been organized in 1921, with Mr. Sprague as one of its sponsors, the Engineering Club has proved itself to be an interesting organization to many boys.

It was formed to promote an interest in technical mechanical knowledge and provide for a method of getting in touch with the practical affairs of the world's work. Mr. Needler has acted as sponsor of the club this year.

To be eligible a student must be enrolled in a trade or engineering course, taking any vocational subject, or having taken one year of shop work. The Engineering Club has a larger membership than any other boys' organization in school.

The dues for each semester are seventy-five cents. A member who is absent three times without a good excuse is automatically dropped.

Regular meetings are held twice a month, and it is the wish of the club to provide good speakers and enjoyable entertainment.

Each year the Purdue Round-up is held at Purdue University. A number of boys from our high school attend this session where much valuable information along technical lines is acquired. The Engineering boys always look forward to this event.

Each spring there is one social event at the end of the year's schedule. This year the members had a picnic, which everyone enjoyed.

THIS year has seen the largest and most active Hi-Y Club that the school has ever had. Under the leadership of Robert Cook and Mr. DeCroes the thirty-nine boys belonging to the organization have done everything in their power to uphold the policy of clean speech, clean sportsmanship, clean living, and clean scholarship.

Because of their affiliation with the Young Men's Christian Association, the club was able to present before a general assembly, Mr. Lockwood, Secretary of the Y. M. C. A. in Canton, China. They also sponsored a pep meeting preceding the South Bend football game. The members published and sold programs for that game.

The boys have had two banquets this year. At one they were hosts to the men of the Hi-Y of South Bend, and at the other they initiated twenty new members.

Besides these, strictly for their own enjoyment the organization sponsored a dance, and at the end of last semester they had a picnic. Each member invited a guest to attend these functions.

At the regular meetings which were held each month in the Hi-Grad rooms, some very interesting programs were given. Two outstanding speakers of the year were Judge Albert Doyle and Mr. G. C. Miller, President of the Dodge Manufacturing Corporation.

This is a pioneer organization of M. H. S. and is doing work that the school may well be proud of. The purpose of the organization is to promote social fellowship among the boys.

THE Girl Reserves seem to have claim upon the most ambitious girls in school, for since the organization of the Mishawaka chapter of this club last semester, it has been one of the most active organizations in school.

Besides its regular meetings every week, the club has held four special meetings. The first was a recognition service in which three new members were received into the club. The second was a Mother-Daughter banquet held in the high school cafeteria. Miss Marie Ellmen was guest of honor and Miss Reba Williams addressed the mothers and daughters.

Together with the South Bend club, the girls held a tea, the Mishawaka girls having charge of the refreshments.

Every month a Girl Reserve paper, "The Blue Bird" is published by a different chapter of the club. The Mishawaka group published the May issue. Also in May this group, the South Bend club, and the Elkhart club held a joint conference at South Bend.

The symbol of the Girl Reserves is a triangle, the three sides of which represent mind, body and soul.

FOR the benefit of the artistic students in the school, Miss Ada Kennedy organized the Art Club in 1927.

At the meetings, which are held once every two weeks in the music room, some very interesting programs are provided. The speakers are generally artists from neighboring towns. The goal of each meeting is to instill into the members a higher appreciation of art. Informal dancing has been enjoyed after several of the meetings this semester.

At holiday time the club sponsored a sale of Christmas cards which were made by the advanced art classes. The cards were attractively decorated with different views of the high school, made with linoleum blocks. The money earned from the sale of these cards will be used to buy sculpture for the art department.

The only social function for the year was the picnic held in May.

Any member who is absent from three meetings, unexcused, is expelled from the club.

THE Commercial Club, which was organized to bring about cooperation between the students and teachers of the commercial department and to promote interest in commercial work, boasts the largest membership of any organization in the school.

Every year the club sponsors the "Commercial Club Vodvil" which is always one of the most entertaining sensations of the year. The money gained from the vodvil aids the organization in paying for the transportation of Mishawaka contestants to the commercial meets held annually at Muncie. This year the club earned additional funds by sponsoring a picture at the Tivoli Theater.

As an annual feature, the Office Engineers, Incorporated, of South Bend, presents a trophy to the outstanding commercial student, who must rank high in scholarship, leadership, and character and must participate in the commercial contests. This year Jane Morgan was the outstanding student.

Any student taking a commercial subject may belong to the club. Meetings are held once every month. Any member who is absent from two consecutive meetings without a written excuse is suspended from the organization.

The awards won at the state contests were presented to the winners at a banquet which was held in May in the high school cafeteria.

Commercial Contest

THE tap-tap of typewriter keys as excited typists took tests and wrote letters, the transcription of shorthand dictation, the handling of figures by the bookkeeping students—these marked to the commercial students of Mishawaka High School the first lap in the annual commercial contest.

The contest, held every year at Muncie, Indiana, differed this year from former ones in that mass contests were held instead of district meets. Every commercial student in high schools entering had to take the test. The twenty-five schools standing highest sent teams to the state contest. The typewriting tests, which were formerly based on speed, were based on the ability to apply the knowledge gained in setting up letters and tabulation, as well as on speed.

Mishawaka relinquished the governor's cup, which we had won for four consecutive years, to Emerson of Gary. Emerson also won the bookkeeping cup; Peru, the shorthand cup; and Jefferson of Lafayette, the typewriting cup.

Mishawaka placed second in advanced typewriting, class B, third in advanced shorthand, and second in advanced bookkeeping. Bernice Chamness, who took third place in advanced bookkeeping, was the only one who placed individually for Mishawaka.

The members of the teams that represented our school are as follows: beginning typing, Pearl Press, Margaret O'Dell, Eunice Palmer; advanced typing, Ruth Teichman, Anne Di Fiori, Catherine Arata; advanced shorthand, Jane Morgan, Pauline Miller, Anne Keleman; beginning bookkeeping, Julia Liepold, Julia Vercseg, Harold Grant; advanced bookkeeping, Bernice Chamness, Jeannette Van Huffel, Elizabeth Deal.

THERE was established in Mishawaka High School last December a new organization, the Ushers' Club. The purpose of this club is to supply ushers for all school games and entertainments.

The club was organized with Mr. Amos as sponsor, and is composed of twelve regular ushers and four substitutes. To be eligible for membership a student must not have failed in any subject the previous semester.

These boys who have "shown us to our seats" at all school activities have created order and dignity in ushering, and they deserve merit for their work.

Members of the Ushers' Club while on duty must abide by the following rules:

1. Be on time
2. Stay on job until excused
3. Refrain from unnecessary talking while on duty
4. Be courteous
5. Report offensive conduct of visitors

Meetings are held before each game or entertainment when instructions are given to the staff of ushers. Otherwise this organization has no meetings. Although the club has a small membership it covers a wide field in that it serves the whole school.

THE Drama Club is the most recently organized extra-curricular activity in Mishawaka High School. It was organized at the beginning of the second semester, as a result of the popular demand of the students for an organization to stimulate interest in dramatics and to bring to light new talent. By creating interest in dramatics through her English VII classes, Miss Cravens is largely responsible for the existence of the club.

Membership in the Drama Club is restricted to those who have completed or are enrolled in English VII or VIII. Three unexcused absences necessitate suspension from the club. The dues are twenty-five cents a semester.

According to the constitution, there is an executive committee consisting of the officers of the club, whose duty it is to select plays and choose their casts.

The meetings were scheduled to be held in the auditorium on the first and third Wednesdays of each month, but because of the fact that the auditorium was in use a great deal of the time, meetings were quite frequently postponed. The programs were very carefully planned to carry out the purpose of the club which is to present a different type of play at every meeting and to so cast the plays that every member of the club will have an opportunity to take part in at least one production each year.

The Drama Club proved very popular this year and it is hoped that the organization will attract an even larger number of students in the future.

THE one hundred members of this organization are those girls in the school with athletic inclinations. The girls' interests must be forceful enough, however, to make them enter into sport life.

Before a girl is eligible for membership she must have earned one hundred points by hiking, swimming, skating, playing tennis, participating in extra gym classes, and in interclass games. After a member has earned five hundred points in this manner, she is given numerals; for eight hundred points the reward is a letter, and anyone with one thousand points receives a sweater.

Coach Steele

Coach Steele

MISHAWAKA HIGH SCHOOL has a staunch friend in Coach Frank M. Steele, who for seven years has supervised physical education in the Mishawaka schools. Although he is the main cog in the school city's physical education machine, he finds time to pilot the Mishawaka High School grid team during its regular season and to conduct an intensive spring session in gridiron maneuvers, as well as football camp in the late summer.

His championship teams of 1925 and '26, who ran through their schedules without a blemish, will long remain in the memories of high school graduates, and will forever be two lofty pillars in the temple of Mishawaka High tradition. "Coach," as he is known to the student body, has a record of 43 wins, 6 knotted counts, and 19 losses. A showing, which in this day of open football, lucky "breaks," and stringent eligibility rules, is quite noteworthy.

Mr. Steele has attended Battle Creek Normal School, the University of Michigan, as well as the Notre Dame coaching school under Knute Rockne.

The program at Mishawaka High School, sponsored by Mr. Steele, consists of intramural sports, tumbling, military marching, free arm exercises, speedball, touchball, indoor, and track.

Miss Watkins

THE girls of the Mishawaka High School were very fortunate this year in having Miss Ruth Watkins, who came here from the Ball State Teachers' College at Muncie, as their gymnasium instructor and faculty advisor of the G. A. L. Miss Watkins instilled a great deal of enthusiasm into the girls in both the athletic organization and also the sports that the girls followed in the course of the year.

A new sport, speedball, was introduced this year and proved to be one of the best liked sports in the school. The tumbling team demonstrated real skill in their performance before a capacity crowd at the spring demonstration. The girls of the Dance Club were taught the dances for the demonstration and also dances which they gave as entertainment in the Vodvil and before the South Bend College of Commerce.

The girls in the gym classes were instructed in tap dancing, natural dancing, and rhythm, besides mass games and relays.

The G. A. L. underwent a number of changes, first of which was the revising of the constitution and the point system. A girl must now engage in 24 hours of team play to win 50 points toward entrance into the organization. Through the cooperation of the officers, girls of the club, and Miss Watkins, the G. A. L. has been placed on a higher level than ever before.

Football

FOR eight tedious years I wriggled in my seat, gazed longingly out the window, and then scowled down on my desk and on the tattered, blue speller that lay there.

One day long ago, a spinsterly veteran of the school system, with one eye toward economy, and the other set on a sure method of attaining a marked degree of uncomfortableness in the emotional make-up of grade school scholars, must have chosen this most unfriendly speller as an eight-year companion for me and numerous other unfortunates.

The rules and words of the old blue demon I have forgotten, but one thing, at least, I remember still—the last two lines of a poem on one of its pages:

"When the Great Scorer comes to write against your name,
He writes not if you won or lost, but how you played the game."

The Mishawaka High School varsity football team played clean, won clean, and lost clean. That is a tribute greater than a string of victories extending over many years, and the Great Scorer, I have been told, does not forget.

The 1931 edition of Cavemen was not an unusual squad to either extreme. They won five encounters, lost four and tied one.

At times they flashed bits of admirable play, when a long off-tackle smash and excellent blocking were good for 50 yeards. And at times they were caught flat-footed; for example at South Bend, when the ends were boxed repeatedly, and a reverse through the center of the line meant a consistent gain for the speedy South Bend backs.

COACH STEELE

Mishawaka opened its season with an overwhelming victory over Noblesville by a 61-0 score. The opposition was so weak that no insight on the 1931 Maroons could be gained. The backs looked shifty and the line, strong.

A fast Horace Mann team, using a man-in-motion offense, gave the Maroons their first taste of defeat by a 24-6 score in a night game played at Gary. The Mishawaka squad was out-weighed, and resultingly overpowered, because of the smashing style of the Horace Mann interference. That night Mishawaka sustained a loss that proved costly when Orvel Nappier, veteran quarter-back, fractured his ankle. Lattimer crossed the enemy line standing up on cutback through tackle that netted 70 yards.

The second string played most of the Wabash fray and turned in a 37-0 in the Maroon's favor. "Bucky" Mestach's return of punts brought the crowd to their feet repeatedly.

The Maroons skidded to a 13 point victory over the Goshen Redskins when they shut them out on the local gridiron in a pouring rain. Lattimer and Mestach were again the jewels in the Mishawaka offensive crown.

A bad break lost the Elkhart melee for the Mishawaka crew, when Lattimer, down in the ill-fated coffin corner, kicked the ball out on his own 6-yard line. This resulted in an Elkhart touchdown on the next three plays. The game ended with the Maroons heaving desperate passes all over the field in a vain effort to score.

Decatur proved a set-up when they fell before a concentrated Mishawaka drive by a 53-0 count.

The South Bend Central game was for the Maroon's opponents an exhibition of speed, deception, and cleverness. The Maroons merely attended the encounter to watch a well-balanced, light but fast Central club skirt the ends, crack the line, and draw the defense out of position time and time again. This is not an underrating of Mishawaka; Central had the greatest team in Indiana and they proved it by winning 26-7. Lattimer gained recognition by scoring the first touchdown of the day. Mestach's defensive play kept the score from rocketing up at least 18 more points.

A lowly Michigan City team surprised the fans by tying Mishawaka 7-7. Mishawaka's score did not come until late in the final period. Lattimer, Rogers, and Mestach pulled the game from the fire with some heady play. Jack Smith, Red Imp back, was the heart of the opposing attack.

In a sea of mud, Mishawaka barely beat the LaPorte Slicer's on the opponent's field by a 7-6 count. Another "coffin corner" kick was responsible for the LaPorte score.

Mishawaka's scoring attempts were checked successfully by the Riley team in the last game of the season at South Bend. Bad breaks for the Cavemen presented the Wildcats two scores, while the Maroons were unable to cross the zero line.

The season is over; the brilliant plays are forgotten; the "boners" faintly remembered. One thing stands out still—Mishawaka knew how to win, and they knew how to lose. Win or lose—they smiled.

The reserve squad had a schedule of its own. In the matter of winning percentage they were a bit more fortunate than the varsity. The underclassmen cracked out two wins over the South Bend Central Cubs and one out of two with Riley's reserves. Scores were South Bend 7, Mishawaka 14; South Bend 0, Mishawaka 6; Riley 7, Mishawaka 6; Riley 7, Mishawaka 14.

Basketball

THE 1931-32 basketball season in regard to games won and lost was unique. Confronted by a stiff schedule composed of strong veteran teams, the Maroons fought gamely only to lose a good many thrilling games by a one or two point margin in the waning minutes of the game.

However, the return of Shelby S. Shake gladdens the hearts of players, students, and fans alike. Starting slowly, teaching thoroughly the fundamentals, and completely changing the style of play, Coach Shake's team entered the sectional tournament rated as one of the most improved teams of the tourney.

Occasionally during the season, hope flared high as the Maroons marched off with a victory. But the hope was not long lived, for out of 22 games the team won only seven. Such games as the Riley, Nappanee, Alumni and Elkhart contests proved thrilling to all. In all probability, the failure of the squad to make free throws cost them more than one game.

COACH SHAKE

Probably one of the most consistent players was Merle Slabaugh, senior, who has been one of the school's most well-known athletes. Merle seemed to be one of those "right place at the right time" men, as he was continually rescuing the team from a dangerous position. Accurate passing and shooting and good headwork made Merle a valuable asset to the team.

Paul DeCaussemaker, another consistent man, played center position. Paul seemed to be in on every play, and could always be relied on to aid in a crisis. He was high point man in several games. This was especially remarkable since this was Paul's first year with a high school team. Another good asset which Paul had, one which Mr. Kern often mentioned, was the right mental attitude. He leaves a place hard to fill and his successor will have to be mighty good to come anywhere near Paul's standard.

Tom Mallery another senior, whose long arms and legs stood him in good stead many times during the season, brought glory to himself by his long shots and free throws. Tom's loss to the team will be felt deeply, since he has been on the squad three years.

Coach Shake and the school are counting on the following boys for next year's team: Dornsife, Betzer, C. Meuninck, F. Kronewitter, A. Meuninck, G. Palmer, Hutchinson, Palsce, Kelley, Morzatto, and Young.

Spring basketball practice has been very successful. There have been approximately 100 boys taking part in spring basketball practice. Each one realizes that there are going to be many good candidates for each position and that members of the team will be chosen by the showing of their mental attitude and ability.

Remembering Coach Shake's highly successful past record with M. H. S. teams, the future looks exceptionally bright. With what looks like excellent material for next year's team, provided that there are no ineligibilities, the coming season should produce an outstanding team.

TIME, tide, and deadlines wait for no man. The Miskodeed sport staff is taking this opportunity to explain that our rigid deadline rule and early press date made full track coverage impossible.

Persistency and unwillingness to be beaten embody the character of the 1932 Mishawaka High School track team in few words. At the time of writing, the Maroon thinly clads had won two triangular tilts, and one dual meet. Their only loss was chalked up at Elkhart at the beginning of the season in a pre-schedule encounter. The Blue and White aggregation scored a grand slam in the barrier jumps to win the meet by 8 points.

Coach Ralph Burgess exhibited a successful piece of workmanship in piloting the Mishawaka track squad by himself for the initial time in school history.

Thomas Mallery led the team to a "sweet" victory over both South Bend schools in a three-cornered affair away from home. Milo McClure, distance man, and Remi Couvreur, dash man, were his most able aides in administering an overwhelming defeat.

They also triumphed in another triangular fray, when they rated first place against Michigan City and LaPorte, also away from home.

THE Tennis squad, led by "Benny" Mason, was one of only mediocre calibre. With two second-year players and the remainder of the squad new material, perhaps the rather unsuccessful season was due to the inexperience of these new members.

Ben Mason and Robert Zimmerman, last year's men, were the mainstays of the squad, playing consistently throughout the season. Mason, sophomore tennis ace, has gained a name for himself by his excellent style of play. Being a sophomore, he will have an excellent opportunity to distinguish himself and Mishawaka High School.

Zimmerman, a junior, also easily made the squad and played a flashy brand of pingard pong.

Palmer and Wolf, the new members, are both very promising and in a couple of years should develop into strong players. Palmer, although rather inconsistent, displayed a good showing at times. Wolf was of somewhat the same type, although slightly more consistent.

Coach Steele was again the coach of the squad. Next year's team will be, in all probability, one of our most successful tennis squads.

This year's complete squad will return next season and with two veterans such as Mason and Zimmerman, great hope should be entertained for the success of the future tennis squad.

GOLF, although still in its infancy at M. H. S., has proved to be quite popular, judging by the number of tryouts for the squad.

The squad now is composed of Thomas Hutchinson, John Clark, Richard Emmons, and Maurice Petro. All of these players have shown themselves capable of good golfing.

Although handicapped by rain and generally inclement weather at the outset of the season, the team did comparatively well.

Mr. Shelby Shake, coach of the squad, has been very successful with the team, considering the fact that golf is yet a minor sport in Mishawaka High School. During the season, the squad displayed a marked improvement, further evidence that golf will be highly considered as a sport in future years at Mishawaka.

The second team composed of Harris Palmer, Richard Palmer, Joe Canfield, Gerald Canfield, H. West, and Donald Zimmerman, is also to be commended on its good work throughout the season.

The future will undoubtedly bring to M. H. S. a growing interest in its golf team.

Richard Emmons, Thomas Hutchinson, Donald Zimmerman, Gerard Canfield, John Clark, Maurice Petro, Joseph Canfield.

Interclass

ALTHOUGH the sophomore class won the league play with an average of .800 at the end of the scheduled play, the senior quintet spilled the "dope bucket" in the tournament competition so suddenly and unexpectedly that the four other teams entered were drenched through and through, as the little streams of upsets swirled from the old "bucket" and mimicked little rivers seeking the sea on the Mishawaka High hardwood court.

Walter George Heftie, II, William Hosler and "Bucky" Mestach were the senior mainstays. Harry Castleman played outstandingly for the junior class in the finals, but the team was hopelessly outclassed.

Through the efforts of the coaching staff at Mishawaka High, interclass sports are sponsored on a large scale. Coach Ralph Burgess held the first interclass track meet on the local cinder oval early this spring. The junior class, led by Charles Meuninch, Milo McClure and Ed Rhodes, placed first; and the second year class barely nosed the seniors out of a second.

Moncer Young, freshman "find," was entered in the high jump, and earned recognition for his class by gaining a first, and obtaining a position on the 1932 track outfit.

Approval of the Mishawaka High school interclass policy was commented on favorably by the student body as opening the sport field to a larger number of students.

Speedball

A BRIGHT October sun, a crisp, cold afternoon, and 150 girls answered the call for Speedball, a new sport introduced to the girls of Mishawaka High School by Miss Watkins. As soon as the fundamentals were learned the girls were playing speedball like veterans. The game, a combination of football and basketball, is played on the football field. The team of eleven players consists of the line, backfield and a goal keeper. Many a game was saved by a speedy goal keeper who, perhaps, carries the greatest responsibility on the team.

The teams line up on the field, as in football. The offensive team kicks off and tries to get the ball through the goal posts, while the defensive team tries to kick it back. The ball may be hit by any part of the body, except the hands, unless it comes directly from another player without touching the ground. A field goal counts three points and a touchdown counts two points. The former is made by kicking the ball through the goal posts. A touchdown is made by a pass from the opponents' territory over into their goal. Many games were won by two or three points.

A perfect passing attack and excellent team-work brought the Sophomores a 15-7 victory over the Seniors in the last game of the tournament.

Thus the season ended, and speedball proved to be one of the most popular and enjoyable games ever played by the girls of Mishawaka High School.

Volleyball

WITH the coming of the volleyball season this year there came a great group of enthusiastic followers of the sport. During the months of November and December about 150 girls faithfully followed the schedule that was made out for them. Each girl put in her 24 hours of energetic play that is required in order that she might earn her fifty G. A. L. points.

The sophomore team, captained by Helen Norris, completed a successful season, winning the interclass championship for 1931. The team won thirteen games and was defeated only twice. The squad showed excellency in its technique in regard to the rules and regulations of the game. A large amount of skill and alertness is necessary in order that the girls may harmoniously work together on the team. Each girl must be "playing the game" all of the time.

This year the sport seemed to have gained a number of new followers, and with the increase in the number of participants the contests became more enjoyable.

The game is not as simple to play as it seems to be when one is looking on from the side lines. It takes skill to be able to serve the ball accurately across the net, but it requires more skill to be able to return it. Through practice these abilities are developed. The girls practiced faithfully and were in return rewarded for their efforts by increasing their alertness and skill for the game.

This season the following girls participated as captains of their respective teams: Mary Kopsea, senior; Janette Hunt, Marjorie Pedersen, juniors; Helen Norris, Flora Baldini, Mary June Castleman, Leona Van Rie, and Katie Major, sophomores; Isabelle Warstler, Gertrude Hunt, Lillian Novak, Lois Mecklenburg, freshmen.

Basketball

BASKETBALL season began after Christmas vacation with one hundred and seventy-five girls turning out. This year the girls advanced a step, and divided the floor into two courts instead of three as done previously. Six girls played on a team, with three forwards and three guards. One of the forwards played jumping center and then, after the ball was tipped, she took her place in the forward court with the forwards. This proved to be a faster game because the ball was thrown directly from one court to the other, instead of being relayed into three courts.

Each girl was given the same opportunity in making the class teams. Instead of being divided into good, fair, and bad teams, they were divided into teams of equal standing.

Practice games were played during the noon hour and after school, in which each team played every other team. Then in order to choose the champions of the 16 teams, an elimination tournament was held. In this, as soon as a team was defeated, it dropped out of the run for championship.

The two teams going to the finals were: the sophomores, led by Mary June Castleman, and the freshmen, led by Kathryn Lidecker. In this, one of the hardest fought games of the year, the sophomores nosed out the freshmen by a score of 7 to 6.

The Interclass champions then played the teachers' team, sponsored by the G. A. L. The teachers defeated the sophomores by an overwhelming score of 40 to 12.

Physical Education Exhibition

COINCIDING with the Mishawaka Centennial, the Physical Education Exhibition was given with an Indian theme and background. Three hundred girls participated in the demonstration.

The theme of the exhibition was an Indian program given in honor of Princess Mishawaka, portrayed by Virginia Ainley. Girls who took part in the demonstration were members of the gym classes and the Dance Club.

Outstanding numbers which were given by the Dance Club were: "The Kick Off" and "The Wooden Soldier and the China Doll." The dances were tap and natural dancing. The fifth and sixth hour physical education classes presented the "Arkansas Travelers" which proved to be a "hit" with the audience. The Scarf and Fountain Dance presented by a selected group of Dance Club members was well received also.

The climax of the evening's entertainment was the dance of College Melodies. The steps were made up entirely by the Dance Club, and the girls proved themselves to be beyond the stage of amateur dancers.

The program closed with relays by the various physical education classes and tumbling by the "Tip Tops" and the "Rolly Pollys," the G. A. L. tumbling teams.

The success of the Exibition was largely due to the efforts of Miss Ruth Watkins. She proved to be a valuable asset to athletics and entertainments for Mishawaka High School.

Though not as elaborate as last year's, the Exibition was most entertaining and included a wide variety of colorful costumes and dances. Through Miss Watkins' untiring efforts, the Physical Education Exibition of 1932 was one of the outstanding entertainments of the school year. The girls are to be complimented on their fine work!

Once In a Lifetime

Directed by Miss Lora Duguid

A GYPSY camp! Gay costumes! A campfire! Gypsy dancers! Weird music! Only "once in a lifetime" may one witness such a scene. The seniors presented probably the most dramatic play ever offered by a high school class April 27 and 28, "Once In a Lifetime" by Charles Q. Burdette.

Richard Emmons was pleasing as the hero, Konrad, who was lured from the home of his foster parents, Jeff and Emily Ross, by a gypsy siren, Zara. Laurie was the girl he left behind in his thirst for gay adventure. In a dream of the ancient village Centuria, Konrad became the deadly rival of Stan, Zara's sweetheart. The Daya and the Daro, conducted an auction, selling Zara's hand to the highest bidder. Stan outbid Konrad and Zara stole Konrad's fortune.

In the epilogue, Konrad awoke to find the gypsy camp vacated and his money gone. Laurie found him and he realized that it was Laurie he really loved. Stella, a domestic, solved the mystery of the stolen money, when she brought in Rodney, a town character, and he confessed that he had taken it.

Committees in charge were: costumes, Miss Jean Cravens, Hamilton Calvert and June Clark; stage, Mr. Lester Dahl, Joe Easterday, Leonard Snyder, and Donald Day; publicity and tickets, Mr. Harry Hatcher, Ruth Deardorff, Susan Mary Riley, Darwin Weikamp, Eileen Haupert, Martin Honold, Roland Smith, Katherine Warner and Robert Primmer; properties, Miss Lola Jane Rosenberger, Florence Huston, Wilma Rea, and Ellsworth Schue; and prompter, Virginia Gardner.

The Charm School

Directed by Miss Lola Jane Rosenberger

"THE CHARM SCHOOL," a fascinating comedy in three acts, was presented by members of the junior class on March 17 and 18 before a large and enthusiastic audience. Under the excellent direction of Miss Lola Jane Rosenberger, the play was very well received.

The play concerns Austin Bevans, a young salesman, who, on inheriting a girls' boarding school, proceeds to run it according to his own ideas. He believes that charm is the most important element in a girl's education. Charles MacDonald played the part very successfully. However, his plans succeed too well, for Elise Benedotti (Ruth Ann Jernegan) becomes irresistible and Austin is forced to give up his career as a school master for love of her.

Muriel Jacobson, as Miss Curtiss, and Harry Castleman, as the brusque old lawyer, received the hearty approval of the audience in the characterizations of their parts. Eunice Palmer, as Miss Hayes, and Carl Gilso, as George Boyd, were also outstanding in their roles. Humorous situations arise when Austin employs his friends as professors in the school. The teachers and the students also gave good characterizations.

Miss Lucine Jones directed the orchestra during intermissions.

Daddy Longlegs

Directed by Miss Liela Heimbach and Miss Wilhelmina Lester

THE famous and lovable character, Judy Abbot, of Jean Webster's "Daddy Longlegs," appeared in the person of Helen Wilcox, when the sophomore class gave its annual dramatic presentation on February 4. Charles Stine was the romantic Jervis Pendleton.

The story opened in the John Grer home, the orphanage in which Judy had been reared. The orphans, their matrons, and the trustees added much to the atmosphere. It was here that Jervis met Judy and agreed to sponsor her college education if his identity remained concealed. Judy soon remedied the lack of a name for her benefactor by calling him "Daddy Longlegs."

The attractive college girls' room, a charming country home, and Jervis Pendleton's library form a suitable background for romance between Judy and Jervis, which follows. Its development is interesting and provides the action for the rest of the play.

Very earnest and convincing were the portrayals of the leading characters, who were very ably assisted by the other members of the cast.

The Commercial Club Vodvil

NOVEMBER 18 and 19 the Commercial Club presented its eighth annual, and possibly most successful, vodvil, under the general direction of Mr. Harry H. Hatcher, head of the Commercial department.

Opening the program, the Boys' Glee Club gave a welcome to the audience with the number "Bohemia." Thomas Kerr and Isadore Shapiro amused themselves with wisecracks, riddles, and music. Immediately following was "Railroad Shuffle" presented by Harry Castleman, Frank Fogaras, George Klein, and James Cone. Lawrence McCoy portrayed the hotel clerk in the amusing playlet, "Troubles of a Hotel Clerk," directed by Miss Lola Jane Rosenberger. He was supported by Roy Rupe, Fred Simper, and Milton Goldberg. Miss Lucine Jones and Miss Ruth Watkins supervised the production of "Trees" in which the Dance Club and the Girls' Septette participated. George Klein presented "Musical Mose," after which an unusual cast gave "So This Is Paris," directed by Miss Margaret Moist. In closing, the Boys' Glee Club thanked the audience in verse and song.

ORDER OF PROGRAM

Act One	Bohemia
Act Two	Hash
Act Three	Railroad Shuffle
Act Four	Troubles of a Hotel Clerk
Act Five	Trees
Act Six	Musical Mose
Act Seven	So This Is Paris
Act Eight	Finale

Assembly Programs

SEVERAL times we were spared the boredom of sponsor period and were entertained either by student talent or by professional musicians or actors. We were amused by two plays given by the "Alltold" staff in their campaigns; Joe Easterday was especially entertaining in his role of baby in the first play given.

The Mason Jubilee Singers were delightful, and the entire student body seemed to enjoy them. The superstitious part of our natures was satisfied by the appearance of Mardoni, the magician, who was able to escape from a box in which Mr. Gardner felt he had securely bound him. This magical man was also able to read the numbers on dollar bills, and he read the number on one of Mr. Sprague's keys. The Senor Hachacha was very entertaining in the attempted role of a celebrated magician.

As in the days of old the kings listened to the kings' minstrels, we were delighted by the Kings Male Quartet. The bells, which the quartet handled very well, formed a rather unique entertainment which was new to us.

The Wednesday before Christmas vacation, Mrs. Floran S. Kelley gave a very interesting dramatic program, presenting the Christmas story, "Holly at the Window," by Zona Gale.

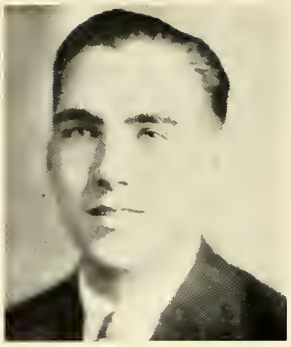
Two of the outstanding assemblies of the year were two one-act plays presented by the English VII classes under the direction of Miss Jean M. Cravens. "Mix Well and Stir" by Katherine Haviland-Taylor showed the talent of the students, and the lightning and thunder showed the result of knowledge gained in producing stage effects. "Alone At Last" was also very good, showing some outstanding acting.

Five of the principal speakers of the year were Mr. S. B. Pettingill, representative from Indiana; Professor Clarence Manion, from the College of Law, Notre Dame University; Professor Harry Kitson, of Columbia University; Mr. A. L. Trester, supervisor of Indiana High School Athletic Association; and Dr. George B. Cousins, from the Colgate-Palmolive Peet Company, Chicago.

Amusing skits were given before each class play, and as a climax to our general assemblies, the Notre Dame Glee Club entertained us on May 12 with a very delightful program of songs.

The Miskodeed

I have nothing!
Yet, my possessions
Far surpass
The wealthiest man's—
Of any class:
For my memories
Will ne'er release their grasp
Upon my mind.
With these I travel on,—a mind within a mind.
—Pauline F. Shankel.



HAMILTON CALVERT

WE start a chain of new friendships and acquaintances when we enter high school. As this chain grows, link by link, we begin to realize that a permanent record of our activities and those of our classmates is desirable. For nineteen years, the "Miskodeed" has been the memory book of M. H. S. Four such annuals constitute a complete file of our high school career.

We members of the staff feel greatly honored to have been chosen from the many applicants to help compile the Miskodeed. Hamilton Calvert was elected editor-in-chief by the class during the junior year. He and Miss Catherine Stearns, faculty advisor, interviewed and selected the other members of the staff. The Editorial board, consisting of the advisor, editor-in-chief, two associate editors, art editor, and business manager, deserves a great deal of the credit for the time they spent in making the book a success. Without their guidance the sections could not have been assembled consistently.

Miss Catherine Stearns

The publication of the Miskodeed involves a great expense, but the book is sold to the students at the lowest possible price. The annual is made possible by the cooperation of the merchants who have given their aid despite the depression. The matinee dances have also been a source of income.

Of the fifteen members of the Quill and Scroll, honor society for high school journalists, twelve are members of the Miskodeed staff. The Miskodeed is also a member of the National Scholastic Press Association, and in the last four years has received two excellent and two All-American ratings.

AT the beginning of the first semester a committee from the journalism class was appointed to draw up a code of ethics and a platform for the Alltold, the weekly paper published by the class. In this code of ethics every member of the staff pledged himself to live up to the highest ideals of trust, leadership, cooperation, truth, honor, and morality to the best of his ability. Through the column "The Voice of The Students" the Alltold has stimulated thought and aroused action upon current school problems, which were included in the platform.

The expression "nothing new under the sun" certainly does not apply to this year's paper. In the course of a year, new features have been introduced: the silhouette and character sketch of prominent students and teachers, Press Drippings, Boobies' Blunders, Bits O' Banter, and two column cartoons on timely subjects.

"FORSAN Et Haec Olim Meminisse Iuvabit"—"and perhaps it will be pleasing to have remembered these things"—is a suitable motto for the Mercurius, published by the advanced Latin class four times during the school year. Perhaps it shall be pleasing to remember the activities of Latin class from your Mercurius file.

Roman gods and goddesses marched before the students in all their glory when Latin plays and articles pertaining to Roman people, their life and customs, were read in class. Special reports were written and given orally to further acquaint modern boys and girls with ancient classic characters.

Latin publications from throughout the United States were among the exchanges of the Mercurius. In this way, M. H. S. students were given the opportunity of knowing what other schools were doing in Latin departments.

Acting upon the old expression "a gift from the gods," members of the class furnished Thanksgiving and Christmas baskets to worthy families in Mishawaka.

Besides stimulating interest in Latin, the Mercurius has given the student a definite end for which to work—seeing his article published.

The Orchestra

A GREAT deal of progress has been displayed by the orchestra in its technique and style of playing this year. Miss Lucine Jones has inspired her pupils to achieve their high degree of excellency.

The orchestra participated in a Spring Concert during Music week, this being the first time that it has been featured in an annual event of the Music department. The talent of the members was well displayed, half the program consisting of orchestral numbers, ensembles, consisting of first and second violins, a flute, 'cello, and piano, cello solos, and trombone and trumpet duets.

The orchestra has been unusually active, playing for the Womens' Club Style Show, the Fellowship Club Ladies' Night Banquet, the Foremans' Banquet at the Ball Band, the Masque play "Dulcy," Princess Mishawaka Centennial, and for all the high school plays.

The Band

"STRIKE up the band" and variations of this expression are freely used in M. H. S. At every pep session the band is expected to be present, but how many really appreciate the effort put forth to make our band possible? They are handicapped by having to practice outside school hours and having no suitable place to rehearse. Every member may have only six excused absences and three unexcused during one semester. Despite all, this year the band had an enrollment of 85, the largest in its history. Seven years ago Mr. Darl Wood organized the first band. It had an enrollment of twenty-eight.

As a unit, the band has played at assemblies, pep sessions, major football and basketball games, Decoration day program, Centennial celebration, District Band Contest, and presented its eighth annual band concert. Thomas Hutchison, Carl Gilso, and Carl Rohleder officially presented the Maroon chant. Several members distinguished themselves as soloists.

Credit in the band is based upon the three A's—attitude, attendance, and accomplishment. To receive a sweater one must have been a member of the band for four years. Durward Beard has completed these requirements and received his sweater.

This year the band showed its initiative by organizing into two groups, the A and B bands. Advanced students were enrolled in the A group, and beginners in the B. For the first time the band had a student manager, Charles Baldwin, and student director, Carl Gilso. Warren Ritter, drum major of outstanding ability, will probably lead the Maroon band through a successful season next year.

Members and advisor proved themselves "go-getters" when they worked willingly towards a worthy goal—new band uniforms. With the help of the Lions Club and the merchants of Mishawaka, they outlined a campaign by which to raise funds.

With the new blue military uniforms, trimmed in maroon and white fourragere with a shining M. H. S. emblem on the left coat sleeve, we are assured of a still bigger and better band.

AUERBACK has said, "Music washes away from the soul the dust of every-day life." Then the girls' Chorus, Glee Club and Septette have accepted their responsibility and added song and verse to many drab lives this year.

The chorus enrollment has been larger than ever before. Any girl is eligible to belong. This chorus sang for the North Central Teachers' Association at South Bend in October of last year.

Members of the glee club are chosen from the chorus after tryouts are held. The glee club has sung for the North Central Teachers' Association, the Christmas assembly, at which they sang a group of Russian Christmas carols, the Christmas P. T. A. meeting, Baccalaureate, and Commencement exercises. The annual music event was the Spring concert in May, in which the entire Music department of M. H. S. participated.

Seven girls were chosen from the Glee club for the Sepette, Sarajane Fuson, Mary Grimes, Margaret Hambright, Ruth Ann Jernegan, Geraldine Kelley, Juanita Kelley, and Velda Wells, while several members have distinguished themselves as soloists and have taken roles in plays and entertainments independent of the music department.

The Boys' Glee Club and Octette

THE Boys' Glee Club, under the capable direction of Miss Lucine Jones, is a worthy representative of the vocal department of Mishawaka High School.

The Club is composed of twenty-four boys who have proved to be a pleasing source of entertainment. The Glee Club has been exceptionally active this year, singing for the Commercial Club Vodvil, the Christmas Assembly, and Commencement Program. The biggest event of the Glee Club was its participation in the Spring Concert, in which its program was very well received.

The Boys' Octette is the successor to the Boys' Quartette which has sung in previous years. This new experiment has proved to be a very successful one. Nine boys were selected from the Boys' Glee Club to sing in this group, Maurice Petro and Louis Gilbert alternating in the baritone part.

In response to many requests, the boys have sung for the Decoration Day Program at Battell School, the Christmas Assembly, the Mothers' Club at the East End Methodist Episcopal Church, Attendance Officers' Convention, the Spring Concert, and other programs.

The Spring Concert

Directed by Miss Lucine Jones

As we travel the high road through the history of music, we find many alluring trails branching off to the right and left of this well worn path. Some of these very probably lead to no place of consequence, but nevertheless often reveal a vivid and vital beauty.

Many students have traveled in pursuit of this beauty in M. H. S. May 5, the music department of one hundred twenty-five students presented its annual music event, the spring concert.

The concert consisted of two parts; the first included selections by the orchestra and vocal ensembles, and the second by the glee clubs, girls' chorus, and instrumental ensembles. Special numbers were vocal solos by Geraldine Kelley, piano solos by Keith Haslett, cello solos by Mary Frances McDonough, and a brass duet by Carl Gilso and Bernard O'Reilly. The program was as follows:

SEPTEMBER

Sept. 8—School opens. Back to the grind. Three new teachers have joined our staff. We hope you like them.

Sept. 12—Noblesville game, score 61-0. Poor Noblesville!

Sept. 15—Senior elections. Mart Honold takes the lead!

Sept. 16—Alltold program. Wasn't Baby Joe sweet? We hope he gets his Alltold.

Sept. 18—Mishawaka is deserted. Everyone has gone to the Horace Mann game.

Sept. 21—First staff meeting for the Miskodeed. Getting started early.

OCTOBER

Oct. 2—Seniors dance to strains of "Good-nite Sweetheart." Do some people like punch?

Oct. 5—Mason Jubilee Singers go over big. Seniors had to be told to leave.

Oct. 10—Goshen game. Wonder if the rain had anything to do with the score—13-0, we won.

Oct. 28—Mardoni, the magician, appears before the student body. Will Louis Gilbert ever lend his handkerchief to a stranger again?

Oct. 31—South Bend defeated us this year but wait until next year.

Oct. 31—Depression is here. The Junior Women's club threw a depression dance. They economized on lights.

NOVEMBER

Nov. 7—Cavemen tie the Red Devils.

Nov. 10—Senor Hachacha, the famous escape artist, the marvel of the age—well anyway he helped get "Miskodeed" subscriptions.

Nov. 11—A minute of silence is observed during the Armistice day program.

Nov. 13—Did you wreck the car on the way home from the Junior dance? Well, you knew you shouldn't walk under that ladder.

Nov. 18-19—Commercial club gives a snappy vodvil. So this is Paris?

Nov. 22—Orv's injured. Tough luck for both him and the team.

JANUARY

Jan. 4—Happy New Year and welcome back to school again. Bet you slept a lot during vacation.

Jan. 5—How much was your allowance cut down when Dad took a peep at that grade card?

Jan. 14—Here y' are, folks, buy tickets to the Miskodeed Dance—Admission ten cents, a tenth of a dollar.

Jan. 21—Really now, this weeping can't go on, though we do feel sorry for you graduates who must leave now. But it serves you right for getting all your credits this early.

Jan. 22—The usual day-dreaming is being done in bed, because we have a day off. Hooray!

Jan. 23—If you seniors don't quit banking so much money we'll have to hire an extra truck to handle it.

FEBRUARY

Feb. 4—Sophs present "Daddy Longlegs." Bill Denton certainly can sing. And isn't Helen Wilcox sweet?

Feb. 5—South Bend downs our Cavemen. But just wait, just wait, we'll get our revenge.

Feb. 9—Bishop Gray speaks to the student body. He knows how to speak, too.

Feb. 12—Hearts and hearts flutter and flutter at the Senior Hearts Frolic.

Feb. 22—Aren't you glad George Washington was born? We get a holiday.

Feb. 29—Er-ah, would you, that is—ahem, uh, aw heck, do you want to go to the leap-year dance with me?

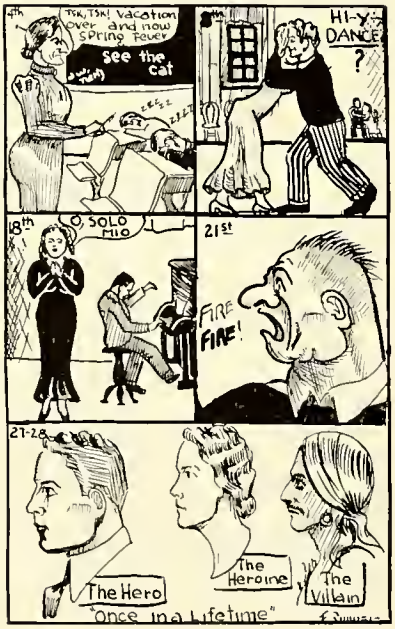
MARCH

March 10—It has been decided that there will be no more Miskodeeds. But don't worry, there'll be some sort of publication to take its place, if that's possible.

March. 17-18—Oh my, all the pretty girls, and all the handsome professors in the "Charm School"! Maybe it would be a good thing to see it twice.

March 20—Bob Fitzsimmons says "They laughed when I got up to read my essay on the advantages of being small."

March 21—In spring a young man's fancy turns to thoughts of curing his cold. But nevertheless, he writes his poetry between sniffles.



APRIL

April 4—Back to school after vacation. Wishing a speedy recovery for those who are ill with spring fever. We have it too.

April 8—Hi-Y members give a dance. Each member invites the one and only. Oh boy, what good ice cream!

April 18—Vic and Irene go over big with their popular songs. Isn't "Mishawaka" clever?

April 21—Fire! Fire!—false alarm—only a fire drill.

April 27-28—"Once in a Lifetime." Congratulations seniors! It was great. Do you want your fortune told?

MAY

May 4—The boys' octette gives a faint idea of what is to come. Their song, advertising the concert, was one in itself.

May 5—The Concert—it has come. Don't you feel proud of our music department?

May 6-7-8—Purdue round-up. Guess we carried off enough honors there.

May 17—Style shows, vocational exhibits, nursing demonstrations, and a general show-off of the school all for our dear public—and to satisfy our pride in our school.

May 20—Kindly refrain from promenading on the lawn, we're trying to have an attractive landscape. And besides you might accidently get tangled up in one of the new bird baths.

May 26—Enchanting music, attractive costumes, and pretty girls. What more could you want of a gym exhibit?

JUNE

June 4—At last, the Prom! Thanks, Juniors, it was swell!.

June 8—Commencement—We have achieved the goal of our high school career.

June 10—Seniors bid goodbye. Oh, don't mind these tears in our eyes, we can't help it. We do hate to leave—why, the very walls and corridors and just every thing about old M. H. S. has grown dear to our hearts. But they say we're through, so we'll have to be on our way. Goodbye, dear old school, goodbye.

My prayers are unanswered
My eyes are cast downward
I've asked for you—but in vain

The flame flared up undaunted into the night,
black towers of night.
And turned them to a mellow yellow
And sparkled on the sweat of men
And glistened on the swarthy skins of them
Who heaved the coal, black, diamond coal;
Black as the night was black
And melted steel.

Beneath a Tree

Did you ever lie
Beneath a tree,
Looking up at the blue sky
Where it shows
In a mosaic pattern
Through the leaves,
Listening to the gentle whisper
Of the wind
As it tells each leaflet
Tales of jungle growths;
Of billowing waves piled
Mountain high by gusts of wind;
Of mountain peaks
Where snow lies glistening
Eternal?
Of strange peoples
And of kings and queens and
Oriental potentates
Who ride in dazzling splendor
Through their cities
On elephants
Bedecked with costly jewels;
Tales of moonlight and of Warm, gentle breezes,
'Neath which lovers
Softly whisper as
Have men and maids
Throughout the ages?
Did you ever lie
Beneath a tree and listen?
Did you ever?

—Hamilton Calvert.

Snow

Snow,
Colorless,
Beautiful,
Cold,
Filmy,
Your little flakes come marching down from Heaven
Putting a filmy blanket over all things that come within your reach,
Your flakes are like the softest cotton
And are shaped like stars and flowers,
It makes one shudder to think a thing so beautiful can be so cold.

By Helen Kindy.

October

When a sort of mellow fragrance
  Seems to gather all around,
And the huntin' season's open
  And the nuts are fallin' down,
Then I like to go a' trampin'
  With my shotgun in my hand,
Just a' huntin' and a' trampin'
  And a' wanderin' o'er the land.

For those crisp October mornings
  Send a tingle up my spine,
And the brown and red-leafed woodlands
  Form a natural kind of shrine.
Each farmer's got his corn all shocked;
  The pumpkin's on the vine.
And when that dull gold sun peeps through,
  I know the whole world's mine.

By Hamilton Calvert.

Moonlight glints brightly
On paddles as they dip
Into dark water,
Smooth
Except for occasional ripples
Caused by gentle breaths of wind.

By Hamilton Calvert.

The Lady of the Mist

(To be read in a whisper, stressing the accents)

as the mist rolled in from the dark
deep river
I saw her

in the midst of the mist
I saw her

she comes just when the mist creeps in from the dark deep river

she goes as soon as the mist is gone back to the dark deep
river

I wish that I could live in mist
forever

By Herman Boorda.

Why must men
Sit and ponder weighty questions
In stuffy offices when Outdoors birds are singing and
Soft breezes caress one's cheeks
Like fairy hands,
Soothing, cooling?
And Nature,
Clothed in robes of
Springtime colors,
Beckons with promises
Of happy hours to be spent
In shady groves
Where violets softly
Push their dainty heads
Through earth's blanket
To whisper that life and love
Are forever new;
Where waves beat softly
On the sands of beaches
And each wavelet
Reflects the light of
The warm sun like
Millions of diamonds tossed
About in a giant hand.
Where one may stretch
Beneath a towering oak,
Lulled by murmurings of Wind through leafy boughs and
The gentle trill of a robin
Calling to his mate.
Why must men stay
In offices?

By Hamilton Calvert.

Boreas

Come from where thou dost lay low,
Mighty Boreas, and blow.
Marshall thy forces and strike—
Savage like—strike!
Mar the tranquility,
Chant thy melody
With thy velocity
Through caves and crags
And pits and dales.
Keep in tempo
With each tremo.
There's music, beauty
E'en in thy brutality!

By Mike Kouroubetes.

Aulis

Aulis! from thy front porch of darkest blue
Ten thousand ships of many colored sails
Put out for Troy—away from Greece and you,
As messengers of war, destruction, wails.

But not till crafty Chalco's prophecy;
Fair Iphigenia upon the altar placed—
The good in chase altered her policy—
The triremes to high walled Ilium raced.

Aulis! great Nature's rage hath marred thy face
Ant it hath dimmed thy glorious history.
Yet, while great Homer lives, none can erase
Thy name; thy fame will last till eternity!

By Mike Kouroubetes.

"I think that I shall never see
A gas station lovely as a tree."

Alas, another beautiful old oak has given way to one of these new gas stations. As the tree was being lowered an old man stood watching—watching with a tear in his eye. No one else knew the reason for the tear, but this is what the old man told me:

"This tree—why it was under this tree that my nurse first brought me to play. This mighty oak was the first I ever climbed. It was here that I discovered the robins' nests, and under here that I often sought shelter from the rain. And it still bears the pair of initials which I carved so many years ago. On a branch of this oak I once hung a swing for my little son. And to think, my own grandson is helping to cut it down. My, but it will seem odd to be living next to a gas station instead of a tree."

"Gas stations are built by fools like me
But only God can make a tree."

By Susan Mary Riley.

The little dog stands shivering in the wind that weaves through the bare trees.

The Night lives long, and is clothed in a cloak of dreary black—a spell of bleak blackness that even the stiletto-like slants from the silver sliver of moon, high in the uncompromising heaven, cannot disperse.

The little dog howls his lament of loneliness and of cold.

The Night is clothed in a cloak of dull black, dull as the blow of a battle-blunt blade.

The relentless wind continues to crack through the bare trees, weaving and whipping.

The crooked road is filled with broken branches. No one walks the crooked road. God seems far away.

The little dog stands shivering in the wind.
